United States Department of Agriculture,

OFFICE OF EXPERIMENT STATIONS—CIRCULAR 97 (Revised).

A. C. TRUE, Director.

INSTITUTIONS IN THE UNITED STATES GIVING INSTRUCTION IN AGRICULTURE.

[Corrected to March 15, 1912.]

This list, compiled by Miss Marie T. Spethmann, includes only those institutions which, through correspondence or other specific information received directly from them, have come to be listed in this office among the institutions giving definite instruction in agriculture. It is to be revised at intervals, and at the time of revision the names of other colleges and schools offering courses in agriculture will be added.

That the number of such institutions is steadily increasing is shown by the following summary, the figures in parentheses being taken from the list published in May, 1910.

Institutions for white students.—Collegiate, 61 (57); privately endowed colleges, 42 (24); agricultural high schools receiving State aid, 78 (58); privately endowed agricultural high schools, 8 (2); public high schools receiving State aid for agriculture, 289 (28); normal schools, including county training schools and industrial schools for women, 196 (156); public and private high schools and academies in every State in the Union except Delaware, New Jersey, and Rhode Island, 1,622 (432); correspondence and reading courses in agriculture, 26 (18); elementary schools (special), 38 (34).

Institutions for negroes.—Secondary schools, 106 (46); elementary schools, 16 (20).

Institutions for Indians, 112.

Total number of institutions, excluding duplicates, 2,575 (863).

Total increase, excluding duplicates, 1,712.
